FINE CABBAGES

They Are the Best Quality Seen in Salt Lake in Many a Day.

AFTER A LONG STRUGGLE CELERY GIVES UP GHOST

Fresh Mushrooms Are Plentiful. but Cannot Be Had at Restaurants.

While the past seven days have not been productive of many changes in prices, yet the advent of new cabbage, broilers and tangerines and a more lavish supply of greens has made the week a busy one in market circles. The new busy one in market circles. The new cabbage is said to be the finest that has been seen on the market for many a day, being almost as tender as lettuce.

Canny Scots will mourn that for four months finnan haddle will be in retirement. The fish market stiffened up Thursday, all varieties going a few cents higher and striped bass, the luxury that has been delighting fish lovers, scaring 10 cents a pound in a day.

Celery, after a gallant and long-drawnout struggle, has finally succumbed and gracefully disappeared. Only a few scattered bunches are seen, more fit for soups and flavoring than for relish purposes. Cauliflower, too, has said a final good-bye.

Butter is still at low-water mark at good-bye.

Butter is still at low-water mark at 25 cents a pound. The week has seen no change in the dairy products except in cheese, which is quoted 5 cents higher. California cucumbers, large and Julcy, are cheap at 25 cents, while Florida tomatoes have dropped considerably in price. Potatoes are going down, a drop of 20 cents a hundred taking place since last week.

One of the peculiar things about the produce and market situation is that though mushrooms are plentiful on the market, they cannot be had for love or money in any restaurant. Inquiry simply elicits the statement that fresh mushrooms are not to be had, though every stall on the market flatly belies this statement.

Utah broilers continue to come in, though a carload of Eastern turkeys and hens was received. Also a joy to the lover of the onion, a carload of the Bermuda variety has been received. Outside of the green stuff and a few vegetables, Utah stuff is not coming in so fast, a cold spell retarding things.

WEAK MEN

So-called "Weakness" in men is merely a symptom of chronic inflammation in the prostate gland, brought on by early dissipation or by the improper treatment of some contracted disease. A complete and radical cure is, therefore, a question of restoring the proestate gland to its normal state, and this we accomplish promptly and completely without the use of internal ramedies. Our treatment is a local one entirely. It is original and scientific, and has been proved absolutely effective by thousands of tests. We are convinced that by no other methods can full and permanent restoration of strength and vigor be accomplished.

reports of damage by the green bug were influential in the early steadiness of the market.

Traders who were abort of the May delivery were conspicuous in the corn pit. The nearby deliveries, from being at a discount vesterday, attained a premium over July of idite at the close. The split at the highest point of the day was it, when May sold at 50c. The covering operations in May were reflected in July contracts, the market for that delivery holding strong throughout the session. July corn opened unchanged to it higher at 91@ 152c, touched 49c and closed at the top.

Buying by houses with extensive connections in the Northwest and Southwest, coupled with the strength of corn and bug damage claims held the oats market firm, although rains have recently improved the crop prospects in Illinois. July oats sold between the and 412c, and closed it higher at 412@414c.

The bulk of business in the provisions pit was in changing May contracts for later deliveries. The strength of corn was influential in holding prices steady. The market closed without material change. July pork at $15.85; July lard at $8.70, and July ribs at $8.65.

cast of snow in Kansas, followed by a partial fulfillment of the prediction was the predominant influence in the wheat market today. July closed with a loss of 182c. Corn gained to, and oats to. Provisions showed little change.

Early reports showed no material change in the weather in Kansas, and the opening of the wheat market was shade higher, at $1355812c. An advance to $12c followed, at which point a reaction set in on predictions of rain or snow in Kansas. Later advices that there had been a partial realization of the prediction in the shape of a snowfall in Northern Kansas caused renewed selling, which became marked during the last half-hour. July dropped to $1$c, where it closed, $40$c under yesterday, A good commission demand and renewed reports of damage by the green bug were influential in the early steadiness of the market.
